April 2022

Koray Caliskan is Associate Professor of Strategic Design and Management at Parsons and Associate Editor of the Journal of Cultural Economy. He received his Ph.D. with distinction from NYU's Politics Department, with which he won the Malcolm Kerr Social Science Award from MESA. His book Market Threads came out from Princeton University Press and focused on global commodity markets and economization relations. He is the co-founder of Mamame, a social innovation project bringing together the organizational form of cooperative and limited liability company in economizing under-represented women's labor, which won the Entrepreneurship of the Year Award in 2017 from Microsoft Turkey. He directed, produced and wrote seven fiction and documentary films, including Esma, shown at Cannes Film Festival. His last research project on cryptocurrencies, their global communities and blockchains was selected to be a Winner of the Scientific Breakthrough of the Year in Social Sciences and Humanities by the Falling Walls Foundation, Berlin. His book Data Money: Cryptocurrencies and their Communities, Blockchains and Markets will come out in 2022 from Columbia University Press. Currently, on an ESRC grant, he is carrying out research with his team on the economic sociology of digital advertisements. He is also in training for being a digital advertiser. He is the Founding Partner of The Wrong Department, an international strategic design studio with offices in London and New York City.
